Monterey High School
Lubbock, Texas 79415
Volume 20

Heard a guy the other day talking about Lubbock. He said all the usual stuff: nothing to do— kinda drab— too conservative— too hot— too dry. He laughed and said "Lubbock, armpit of America"— laughed again and said, "When you approach the city you can let your foot off the accelerator and the suction will pull you into town." The next day I heard another guy telling a friend about the winter. Said he hated it, "The streets crack and split and get all holey."

Wanted to show him the good things about West Texas— the way the pink creeps into the sky at sunset and hangs around to turn orange and red and a big ole' yellow moon that can make the night bright enough to read the phone book. Wanted to ask him if he'd ever driven under the dusty, orange lights on University and Indiana, the ones that make you feel warm inside on a crisp and chilly night.

Wanted to ask him if he'd been to the Mall right when it closed and heard the shouting stillness. Wanted to tell him that business is good here because Lubbock's just right, not too big, not too small—because Lubbock's wide open for opportunity—because Lubbock has the largest producing cotton gin in the world—because Lubbock has Litton industries, Texas Instruments, Levi and other giant plants here—because Lubbock has a Major state university growing at a rate of 1000 per year. All that's true and great and impressive, but if you get right down to it— that's not the best part— the really great thing about Lubbock— is the people.

Heard a Senior in the hall talking about Monterey—

"Can't wait to graduate—to get outta here. I'll be leavin' Lubbock at last. Too many rules—no freedom. Home of the Mighty Plainsmen, ha!"

Sad. He's missed so much. Couldn't help wondering if he'd noticed the good things—like how often Monterey wins district titles or the large number of National Merit semi-finalists year after year—how could he help feeling proud when the baseball team won two state championships or when the big Red and Blue band takes the field. There's a lot of beauty around, too—the patio in early spring with all the trees in bloom—the newly-painted rooms in exciting shades of chartreuse, orange, and gold—the way the sun catches the flag on a fall morning. Wanted to shout at him and make him listen—the best thing at Monterey is the people—sophomores, juniors, seniors, faculty—all of them—the people.

Parties, dancing, field trips, friends, gossip, boredom, sports, rumors, excitement, sleep, problems, pep rallies, trips to the nurse, smoking, demerits. It's all a part of school, but it's all a part of each student's life. Each person has his own ideals and activities, in and out of Monterey. Each person lives individually and does what he likes best. It's all just a part of living and breathing and that's what everyone does best. It's all a part of student life.

with the theme 'You Can Make It Happen'

"One, two-three-four-five. Monterey don't take no jive" seemed to be a popular chant as well as the theme song of most Monterey pep rallies in 1974-75. A smoke bomb incident ended the Midland pep rally scarcely five minutes after it had begun. Students began policing themselves to prevent further incidents which had become quite popular at pep rallies in recent years. Pep rally attendance and participation was much higher than in the past several years as masses of t-shirted organizations such as "B J 's D A.'s" and "Jivin' Seniors of '75" and several Tri-Hi-Y's raised spirit.

Change was the most dominant characteristic of pep rallies. After attending a summer clinic at SMU in Dallas, Monterey cheerleaders returned with several new yells and chants to enliven pep rallies and games. In addition to their other duties, cheerleaders sold spirit ribbons and organized spirit days such as "Freak out the Farmers" and "Cap Coronado"

DISMAY—Disbelief hovered as Mr. C W Edwards dismissed students from an incomplete pep rally

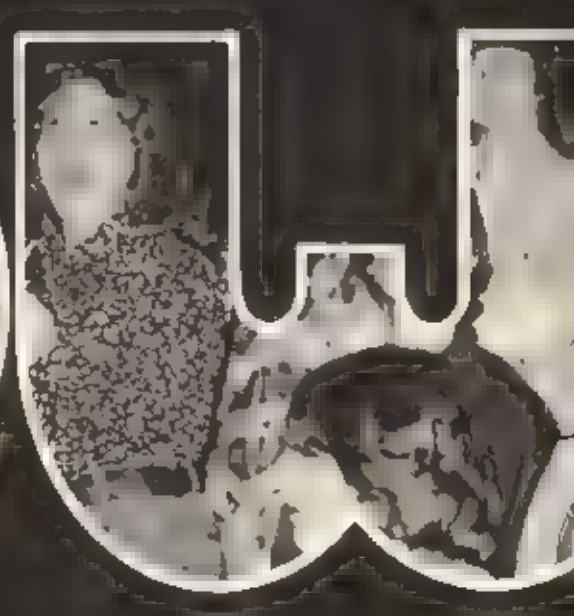

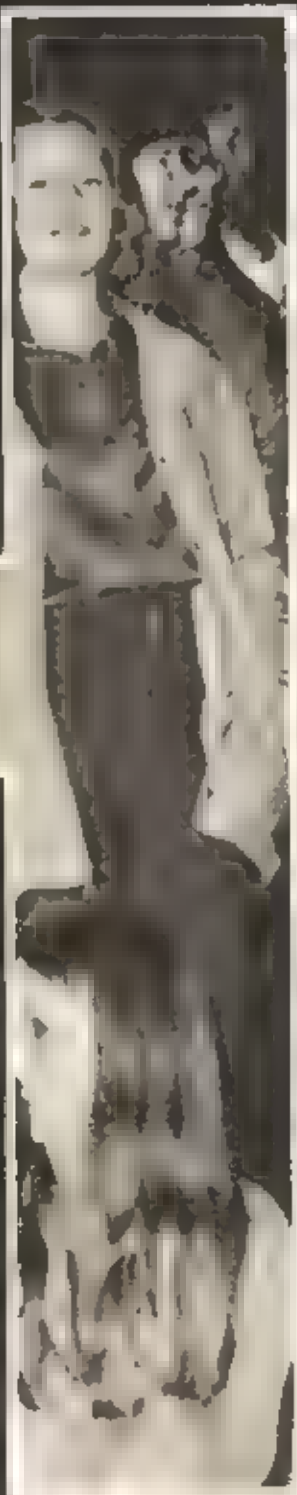

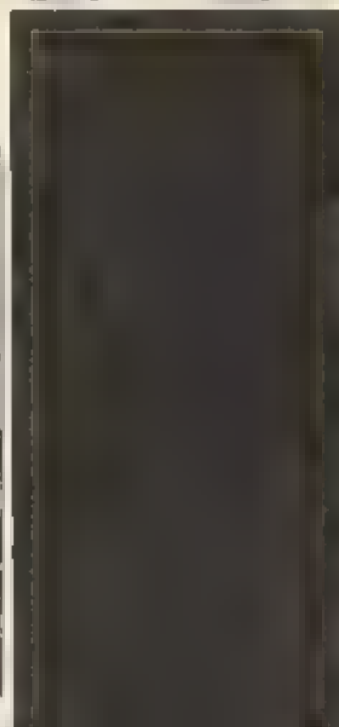

In past years the traditional Howdy assemblies provided a few laughs for upperclassmen and left most sophomores either scared or angry about the inferior role given them. Change came in 1974-75 when the Howdy assembly added a little school patriotism to the ribbing of sophomores. The assembly was spiced with several skits portraying life as a sophomore. Ending in a patriotic speech by Student Body President Bruce Fillingham and the singing of the school song, the '74-75 Howdy assembly left students with a positive attitude.

Cowtown '74 saw the halls of Monterey transformed into the streets of Dry Gulch, Texas. Complete with a saloon, general store, country kitchen, marriage booth and picture booth, Cowtown was a good way to spend a Saturday night. The tunes of "Ace Pancake" didn't discourage the September 7 Cowtown attendance which exceeded that of recent years.

Student Council welcomed students with signs on the first day of school. Teachers were given the services of student council members who preformed odd jobs several days prior to the beginning of school. The welcomed Plainsmen received was one very big "Howdy."

The world is quickly changing and in turn changing us as individuals. Inflation, food and energy shortages, government scandals, war and pollution have marked our society. The impact of these national crises have altered our attitudes and actions.

Christmas at MHS brought a spirit of sharing as several homerooms participated in the Christmas Clearance Bureau's sponsoring of needy families and elementary school parties for underprivileged children. Several Monterey individuals also helped the Goodfellows deliver Christmas gifts in the wee hours Christmas morning to less fortunate families.

Music in the form of assemblies seemed to be the most appealing to Monterey students. Musical groups performing during the year were the Buzz Brothers, Peyote and Crossroads South.

The all-school play of the year was Thornton Wilder's comedy "The Skin of Our Teeth" as directed by drama teacher Harlan Reddell.

High school is a unique time. We only pass this way once and as we do we leave our marks on Monterey. Some leave names in record books and places of achievement and others merely in text books or bits of bathroom graffiti. Each one of us influences Monterey and leaves with it a bit of ourselves.

Was talking to some kids the other day about some of the clubs around school like Student Council, Morning Watch, Thespians, asked them what they thought about them. They said, "Why bother, they never get anything done, they're only for status." Wanted to tell them that clubs at Monterey help students to become involved and interested in school. Wanted to tell them that clubs give kids a sense of unity and belonging. Wanted them to know that if they would only join a club, their outlook would be different. Wished they only knew that clubs made it happen for the people that they helped make.

Language clubs enjoy

Adding cultural knowledge of the Country studied, language clubs supplemented classroom work. The Spanish club, sponsored by Ms. Carolyn Field, began the year with initiation of new members and ended it by traveling to San Antonio for their yearly convention. A garage sale helped in providing funds for this trip.

Ms. Josephine Jardine's Latin and German clubs carried on money-making projects throughout the year. A carwash and candy sale were two of the most successful. These two clubs also had a number of guest speakers from Tech.

Sponsored by Ms. Michele Wade, parties were a frequent activity for the French club. They had a caroling party and a party for two visiting French foreign-exchange students. In late March, Ms. Wade took her students to the French symposium held in San Antonio.

Christian organizations share in fellowship

Among Christian organizations at Monterey were FCA (Fellowship of Christian Athletes), Morning Watch and Y-Teens.

Morning Watch was an informal group of people getting together for Christian fellowship. It was designed for all denominations and open to anyone at all times. The Morning Watch group was led by President Cliff Attaway and Ms. Lois Futch, advisor. Included in activities this year were two weekend retreats to Ceta Glen, several campside services, caroling at rest homes for Christmas and regular Wednesday morning meetings.

Morning Watch held a Sweetheart Banquet in February, selecting Ann Biggs as sweetheart. Morning Watch also provided inspirational readings for the morning announcements.

FCA was an organization of young Christian athletes meeting together to share opinions and ideas on current topics of controversy. At designated meetings, they played basketball and listened to inspirational speakers. Sunday, February 16, found all Lubbock FCA members sharing in fellowship. The annual Dogpatch Olympics were sponsored by college and professional athletes. Advisor for Monterey FCA was Coach Mike Crutcher.

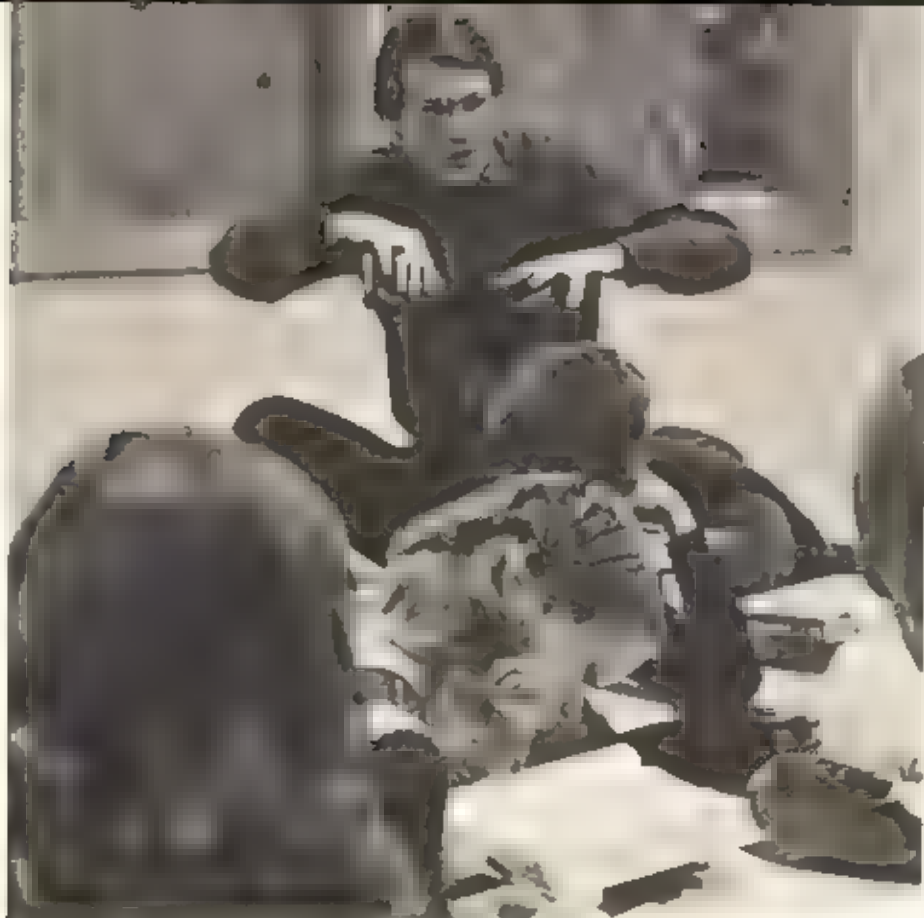

Y-Teens was a Christian organization of young women who met weekly to discuss local service projects. Among activities for the year, Y-Teens sponsored Twirp Week in March. Advisor for Y-Teens is Ms. Patricia Killian.

What club had future members wear a beanie and get down on their knees to recite a pledge? Thespians, of course! Thespians consisted of a group of students interested in the theatrical arts. All Thespians were required to have one hundred work hours, either on the set or actual acting time. Future members were then a pledge and at the mercy of all present Thespians. Pledges were often forced to fall on their knees and recite for the member at any time of the day. Once a member of Thespians, students sold daisies on Valentine's Day and attended various luncheons and breakfasts. Was it really worth it? All Thespians answer, "Yes!"

Quill and Scroll, an honor society for journalists, requires members to have a "B" average in all subjects and to have worked in publications at least one semester. The highlight of the year was the Quill and Scroll initiation supper. "Pledges" were assigned disguises such as that of a banana, a hope chest, or a fish bowl only a few hours before the supper. The challenge was to get a costume together and arrive at the supper without getting arrested or committed on the way.

"TUNE" is the plea heard by orchestra students as Director Mitchell Zablony strives for perfection.

THINK FAST! A concentrated effort shows on the faces of the MHS orchestra and choirs during practices for the "Shubert Mass in G."

Students find talent in Orchestra

Beginning the '74-'75 school year on a good note was the Monterey orchestra, directed by Mr. Mitchell Zablutny. One of the year's highlights was the "Schubert Mass in G", presented November 11. The orchestra rehearsed several Sunday afternoons and school evenings preparing to accompany the four combined MHS choirs in the concert.

In addition, the orchestra presented concerts at several junior highs throughout the year, proving their talents to future Plainsmen.

The orchestra completed the year with spring rehearsals for contest held in late May.

More than one way to skip school...

In the various clubs and organizations designed to "learn while you earn" students found more than one way to get a job. Students in these vocational programs attended one specialized lab in class. They were dismissed to their jobs where they were supervised and graded by their employers. The three credits received for the program, plus two credits in electives, gave students the required credits for graduation.

Under the direction of Ms. Helen Payne, CHE (Cooperative Health Education) instructed students interested in a medical career. CHE supplied on-the-job training in hospitals, dentists offices and medical labs.

In a class such as COE (Cooperative Office Education), Ms. Barbara Clarkson taught her students the fundamentals of office work. Students were supplied with all types of business machines. They were employed by doctors, lawyers, and other professions.

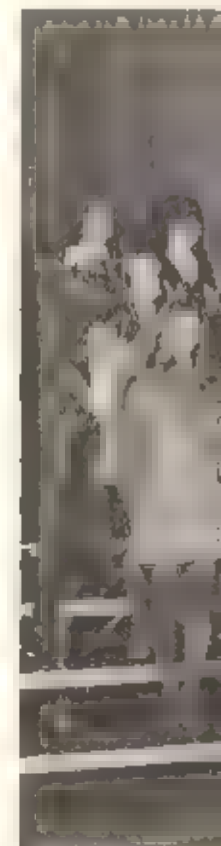

DE (Distribution Education) sponsored by Mr. Ken Olson and Mr. Bill Rice, dealt with distribution from the business to the public. Its occupations included advertising, financing, and personnel work.

Mirror reflects school, offers creative challenge

"But, Kenneth, I can't use this picture. It's so out of focus I can't tell who it is!" "Okay folks, a one-third page ad will not cut it for this issue of the Mirror. Any suggestions?" "I am hurrying - I've typed two lines already!" These desperate cries, emitted through the continual ringing of the phone, are what produced the Monterey Mirror. The Mirror, much more than an average school magazine, strove to give more than just a report of school news. The Mirror concentrated on subjects of interest to the entire high school audience. After considering the many awards it received, it looked as if the Mirror accomplished just that. It received state and national awards for both content and design, and the high praise of judges recognizing its outstanding feature material. The Mirror was produced under the strong leadership of Editor Kenneth Koen. Time, effort, yelling, laughs and forever memorable scenes are what made the Mirror a success. Ms. Betty Stanley, publications advisor, concluded with, "The Mirror is profitable, as well as enjoyable. It offers an opportunity for students to practice not only journalistic skills, but to exercise their creativity."

NHS members aim for change

Perhaps a year of change best describes '74-'75's National Honor Society. The purpose of this year's NHS is to "create an enthusiasm for scholarship, to stimulate a desire to render service, to promote worthy leadership, and to encourage the development of character in all students of Monterey High School." The Floyd Honey Chapter at Monterey passed several constitutional amendments in hopes to achieve this goal.

Ms. Vanda Buhrman and Ms. Lilla Jones, advisors, worked alongside NHS officers in accomplishing the year's efforts. Members organized several money-making projects including selling programs at football games and tutoring fellow students. The NHS also hosted representation for College Night held October 21, at Monterey. Nightmare Theatre, probably the organization's most successful and unique project, was located in a vacant shop in Monterey Center. Outside of concession-stand profits, all proceeds went to Muscular Dystrophy Charity. A new system of point and member induction was accepted and put into effect second semester.

The National Forensic League is a national honor society for high school speech students. It is headquartered in Ripon, Wisconsin. Monterey received its official National Forensic League charter in 1957.

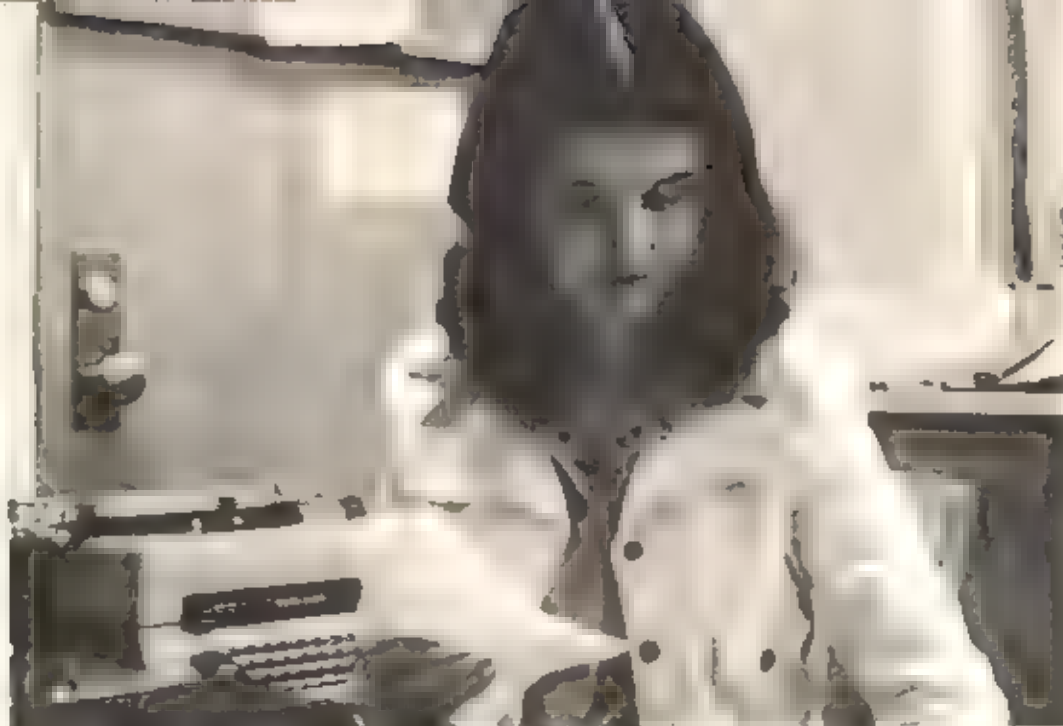

The purpose of the organization is to foster excellence in speech activities and provide recognition for outstanding students in speech activities. NFL competition includes debate, extemporaneous speaking, original oratory and dramatic and humorous interpretation.

Students earn membership in the honor society through points gained in tournament competition as well as through meeting scholastic requirements in their school. Extra degrees of recognition are earned by experience and excellence.

The local chapter participates in tournaments throughout the state each year. The group participates in civic activities by providing programs for club, church and school groups. Parties and awards ceremonies provide touches of entertainment and dignity.

Local officers include Lynn Cooper, president; Beverly Barrier, vice president; Candy McFarlin, secretary-treasurer; and Kimatha Kiser, reporter.

Student body officers spark big year

Patricia Wade
Treasurer

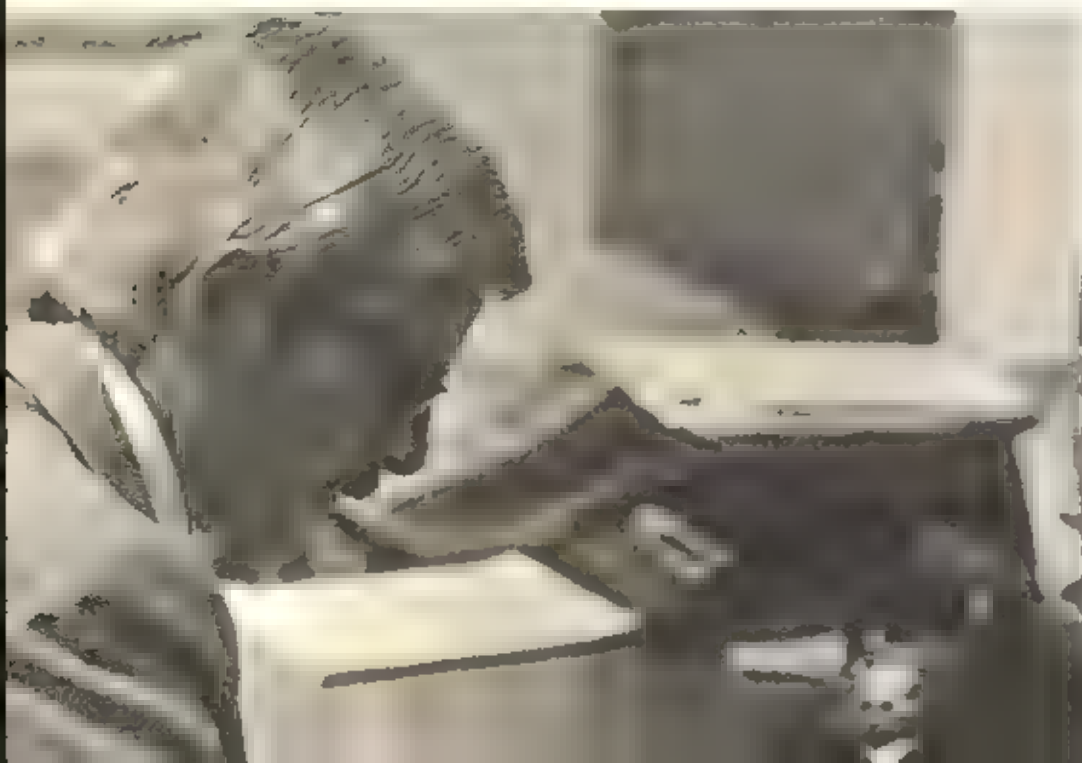

Student Council Officers for the '74-'75 school year were Bruce Fillingim, president; Tom West, vice president; Katy Creel, secretary; Patricia Wade, treasurer; and Cindy Watkins, head cheerleader. Each officer was expected to fulfill the responsibilities of his office and was given the opportunity to attend helpful workshops.

Immediately following election, the four officers traveled to a convention in Dallas. However, they actually began receiving instruction in mid July where they attended the summer workshop in San Antonio. Here they learned the responsibilities of their office and were given new ideas to bring back. The officers began the year by appointing committee heads to designated committees. They were then in charge of planning all pay assemblies, dances, class sales and various other activities and jobs. February first, officers attended a mid-semester workshop in Austin. The '74-'75 year ended with Student Council sponsoring a Senior Kid Day, Junior-Senior Prom and a Senior Banquet.

HECE (Home Economics Cooperative Education) dealt in the home economics and improvement area. Students in HECE attended a lab-classroom for two periods each day. In these lab-classrooms, students were placed in a training station comprised of books and manuals which instructed them on their specific jobs. Several occupations included under HECE were arts, childcare, clothing, fashion coordinating and interior decorating.

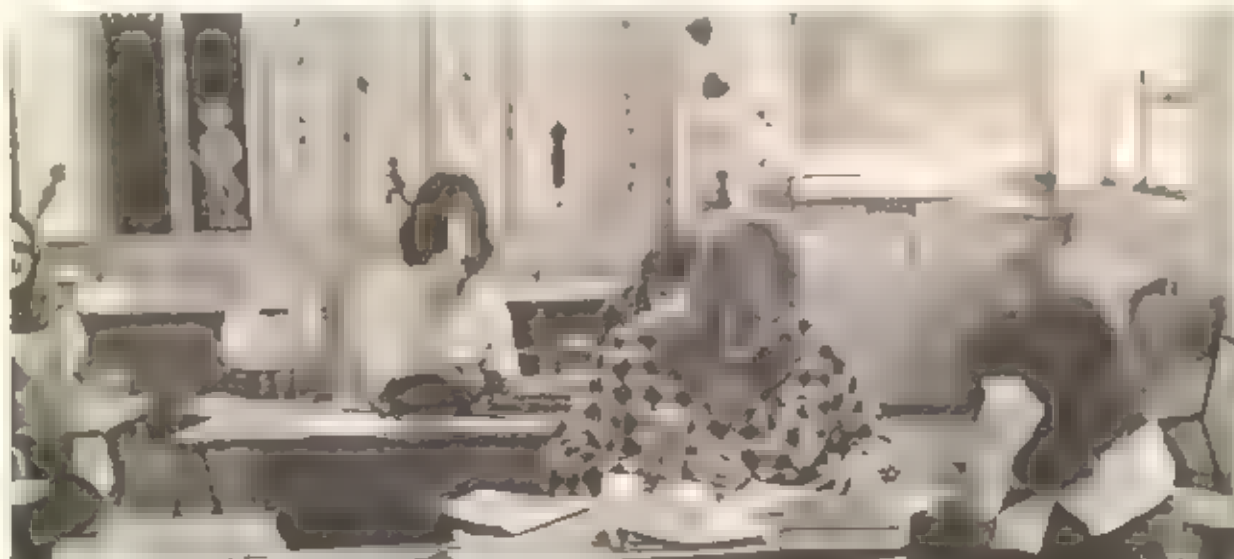

HECE sponsored several fund-raising projects throughout the year, selling items for Christmas gifts. Instructor and advisor, Ms. Mary Lou Thurman, noted that HECE gave students a great deal of knowledge about the business world and helped students determine what occupational field was best for him.

Agriculture, a program designed for the students interested in farming, ranching, raising animals and the like, found students involved in contest events throughout the year. Future Farmers of America (FFA), the club branch of agriculture, included a full slate of officers and about 200 members. Monterey's agriculture department has a school farm located outside the city limits.

Special events for the '74-'75 school year included contests held throughout Texas. The State Fair of Texas, held October 13-19, was in Dallas. November found students participating in Leadership Contests and the District Banquet. A Local Stock Show was held March 17-19, and State Judging Contests, May 3 at Texas A & M were highlights of the year. FFA finished the year at area and state FFA Conventions, June 6-8 and July 14-18, at Amarillo and Houston. Advisors for the FFA club were Mr. Chris Kountz and Mr. Tom Neely.

Chaparral '75 captures year... life ... people

"The deadline's today? Guess I'd better get started!"
"Where's the copy key?" "Julie... Karen... Mrs.
Stanley... somebody... HELP!"

These are among the despairing cries voiced by yearbook students in a valid attempt to produce an outstanding '75 Chaparral. After slaving over what seemed to be piles upon piles of photo assignments, copy, lay-out sheets, 3-R triplicates and last, but not least, the finished photographs; the yearbook was completed. Late hours and lots of hard work came about in February when the last pages of the yearbook were sent in. Perhaps one of the most beneficial lessons learned in class was how to work together—a must in producing the completed copy. With the cooperation of editors, photographers, section editors and ad salesmen; the yearbook captured memories for all.

Co-editors Julie Gaschen and Karen Short spent two class periods each day working on the yearbook. Mrs. Betty Stanley, publications advisor, devoted much time and effort to producing the '75 Chaparral. All in all the entire yearbook staff combined pictures, words and white space to create a unique yearbook designed to bring back memories for all.

In the midst of the vast world of science was the VICA and MC2. MC2 was a chemistry club organized and sponsored by Ms. Janelle Culp. Through research, MC2 explored the various wonders of the scientific world. President of the club was Ricky Rickert.

VICA, Vocational Industrial Clubs of America, was a club composed of all electronics students. Mr. Charles Wilson, electronics instructor, has been the VICA sponsor for several years. The electronics department began with one barrack and very little equipment. Throughout the years, electronics students have raised money to better the studio. The students were broadcasting over KOHM-FM, Monterey's own station, from the barrack studio. VICA required lots of time, hard work and intelligence. Students ended the year with the annual Electronics Fair.

An additional club at Monterey was the Library Club. It was a nationwide group organized for the benefit of student librarians. Regional and state conventions were held in Crosbyton and Huntsville, respectively. Four Monterey student librarians were chosen to attend the three-day convention. The Library Club was sponsored by Ms. Gwen Stephen, school librarian.

Starting strong with a strong voice and letting the tunes fly out. It takes a certain amount of time and skill to acquire a beautiful voice

Under the direction of Mr. James Ramsey students in Cantores learned that excelling in the choral department would require "lots breathiness and the West Texas drawl

For the first time in history, Cantores combined with the members of the other choirs to present "The Schubert Mass in G" for the fall production in November

All choirs traveled to Plainview, in the spring, to participate in UIL competition. Cantores made their annual trip and competed in the Greater Southwest Musical Festival held in Amarillo

Choral department begins '74 - '75 on good note

Highlighting the year's events was the November 11 performance. In combination, the orchestra and the four choirs presented the "Shubert Mass". This program featured guest soloists Ms. Mary Kelly, Mr. Charles Post, and Mr. Danny Barnett- choral student teacher.

During the school year, the Cantores made foiled-silver spurs for homecoming, raised money, went to contest and last but not least- sang daily. The main fund-raising project was a Pop Concert presented by the Cantores, January 30. This money sent the Cantores to the Greater Southwest Music Festival in Amarillo, April 25 and 26.

With the Christmas season came the annual Christmas Concert, December 19 and traditional caroling in the halls

All choirs traveled to Wayland Baptist College in Plainview, March 30, for Contest. It was a busy year and MHS choirs found themselves concluding it with a final concert May 15, in the auditorium.

"TING-A-LING" is heard from the choir room as Vivarachis rehearse "Winter Bells" for the Concert and spirit for the school year. It was a year of old and new. The of junior and senior band members and the band director and philosopher, C. Doyle Gammill, that completes the band scene.

the year, bandsmen have proved without a doubt that they are much were the cries heard by the M.H.S. bandsmen after hearing the results of the annual U.I.L. Marching Contest held at Jones Stadium, November 6. Such songs as "Day By Day", "Pathfinders March" and formations of interlocking "V's" and fluctuating circles lead up to the grand finale: 'M-O-N-T-E-R-E-Y' spelled out across the field to the tune of the school song. The M.H.S. bandsmen marched away with a number 1 rating for the fifth consecutive year.

But it wasn't all peaches and cream becoming a top rated band. One such trifle as a twirler dropping her flaming baton during the Homecoming half time show and starting a small fire on the field (luckily drizzled out by the rainy weather) didn't dampen the bandsmen's moral, even though it embarrassed a few. The school being invaded by a small army of band letter-jackets during the fall showed only one of the many facets of being a member of the M.H.S. band. Even the never-ending cries of C. Doyle Gammill and the relative newness of Keith Bearden didn't hamper their spirit.

If these and other events from the past year are any sign of what's to become of the fighting Plainsmen band in the future, the "swingin' heat from 50th street" will be at it again!

Workout, sweat, pain and long hard hours of practice. This is what's involved in any sport. People who only see the final result in a game or tournament may not fully realize just what it takes to participate on a competitive athletic team. Sports are emotions and feelings as well. The feeling of a missed tackle, of being the high scorer in a basketball game, the agony of placing badly in the 4320, the thrill of knowing you've won. The statistics and the final results do not always show the sport as it really is. It's the team, the players, the individuals who create the desire and drive to win, to do the very best. It's the people combined as the Plainsmen team who try to make it count in 4-A-A-A-A. The practice, the sweat, and often the let-downs are worth it to the school, but more to the people who make it happen. It's the people that make it happen in sports.

'MEN STEAL District

A squad of 48 guys entered the '74 football season determined to overturn a mediocre preseason prediction. "We weren't supposed to be very good this year, and I think our main goal was to show people that we would win district " (Monty Stumbaugh, senior)

Opening the season on the road, the 'Men rolled over Canyon. . . fell to fifth-ranked Wichita Falls Rider. . . was defeated in the closing seconds against Midland High. . . and was stopped by Estacado. The 'Men set things right by upsetting Hobbs and freaking out Pampa Entering district play, the 'Men deadlocked Plainview 3-3 and won on penetrations. They triumphed over Coronado, 9-7, for a big season win to gain the upper hand in district. Next the 'Men knocked off Lubbock High for the Silver Spurs and a homecoming victory. The Plainsmen stumped Hereford, 21-0, in an all-out effort to cop the 4-AAAA title. Monterey met Palo Duro in bi-district and was defeated 0-0 on penetrations.

SHOWED DESIRE TO WIN

If you want it to be done right, you have to do it yourself. JV and Sophomore gridgers learned the meaning of this old wives' tale as they fought off injuries and exerted their best efforts to show their desire to win.

Losing six starters early in the season, the JV Reds pulled together and ended up winning the district title with a 7-3 mark. "We didn't have much talent, but we had the desire and pride to wear the Monterey uniform and to perform like we did." (Kurt Wilkes, junior) Spotlighting the year was the Coronado game which was won in the last 30 seconds, 21-14.

Injuries and a lack of confidence hindered the Sophomore Blues from a productive season. The best effort of the 4-6 season was the 3-0 win over Plainview with an injury-plagued offense. "I was proud of the team because they had the character to assume the responsibility to go out and win." (Coach Calvin Edwards)

SEEK TITLE

Michalka's 1974-75 basketball team entered district with a 12-9 record following a slow start in pre-season play. The defending district champs flaunted a seven game winning streak as they faced Plainview for the district title. Results were not known at time of publication. With a lead in district, MHS creamed Coronado...trampled LHS...outranked the Whitefaces...and overcame Plainview, winning the first half of district. Piling into the second half of play, the 'Men narrowly defeated Coronado, 52-50. It was play day for the 'Men as they rolled over LHS, 75-54, and Hereford, 80-49. Dick Clardy and Jackson Pace powered the Plainsman attack with their rebounding and high scoring. Defense was a major asset to the team... "It's what kept our winning streak moving." SUPERSTITIONS REIGN OVER GAMES

Will winking at girlfriends before a game result in a roundballers' win? The Men seemed to think so as their superstitions determined their outcome. These included:

"I never shave on game day." (Ricky Keith, senior)

Organized warmup with the Men clapping their hands as a means of limbering up their fingers and keeping them loose and warm.

"We make a junior run through the sign first. When I go through the sign last on a home game, we win." (Craig Northcutt, senior)

"I never wear red or maroon for a game because we'll lose, and I always use small chalk because large chalk hampers my style." (Coach Michalka)

Skill is generally acknowledged as a requirement for a winning basketball team, but the roundballers proved that other forces ruled their fate as they posted a winning season.

TUNNELS THROUGH Junior Scott Gardner rips through the spirit hoop, encouraging fan spirit at the game against the Coronado rivals where MHS won with a score of 59-41.

J.V. AND soph's IMPROVE

Inconsistency was a major problem JV and Sophomore basketball teams faced in their 1975 season. "When the season matured, the teams matured along with it as the kids became acquainted with the high school system." (Coach Robert Knight) The general strengths of the teams were in their ability to play together, both offensively and defensively and in their ability to hustle. The weaknesses of the teams were their lack of size and speed. Results of the JV and Sophomore games were not known at time of publication.

JV roundballers posted a 4-13 ledger as they entered district to flaunt a 4-0 record and win the first half. The Lancers were downed by Coronado in their first game of the second half, but they rebounded to defeat Lubbock High and Hereford.

Sophomore roundballers finished pre-season with a 5-7 record and the first half of district with a 1-3 record. In second half, they downed Hereford, but were defeated by Coronado and Lubbock High.

FACE CHANGE

Netters saw change in the 1974-75 season as a new coach and four additional courts were added to the tennis program. Coached by Alton Setliff, the 19 member varsity squad won two tournaments and posted a 10-1 Fall record, losing only to #1 ranked Abilene Cooper. "Shorter, but harder work-outs, more drill work, no organized practice on weekends, and only the top players going away to tournaments were a few changes made which contributed to a successful Fall season." (Scott George, senior)

Looking towards the future... team depth should make the girls' team strong contenders for the district championship... racketeers will enter double round robin dual meets consisting of six singles and three doubles teams... girls' and boys' championships will become separate... "During the spring, all of our attention will be focused on beating Coronado and bringing the district title back to Monterey" (Richard Potts, senior)

TRACKSTERS district

In his first year as head of the 1974 track program, Coach Harold Murrell led his thinclads to seven team championships and 15 trophies. The district jocks entered seven individuals and a relay team in the regional meet. "We were winners last year because the coaches were interested and devoted to each member, and while they worked to improve our times, they brought out our competitive spirit that made us winners." (Danny Martinez, junior)

However, a disastrous repeat of last year occurred when a dropped baton disqualified the relay team and ended a most successful and brilliant track season at Monterey. The only team member to qualify for state was Lane McNamara who placed seventh in pole vault and eighth in the 440 dash

Thinclads plan to keep title

Dedication and school pride turned out 38 thinclads for the 1974-75 track season. These hardworking athletes put forth their 100% to add team depth in defending the district title. . . "We worked out everyday regardless of weather. Even if the chill factor was six degrees, it would make no difference; we would suit up and go run a slow jog around the track. It's been hard on us, but I think that the payoff is in sight " (Randy Ramsey, senior). . . Coach Harold Murrell believes the team's strengths lie in the shot put, discus, pole vault, intermediate hurdles, the 440, 880 and the mile run in order to win the district championship. . . Cross Country easily captured the district championship and then advanced to regionals to place fourth

Duffers hope for district

Upholding tradition, the duffers of '74 anticipated a very successful season. The prospects for winning district were hopeful because... "if our team just plays good golf, we are a cinch to win." (Chip Hughes, senior) Each member had two scheduled practices a week and individual workouts that helped in developing quality swings. Placing third in the Midland tournament proved to the men that all this hard work really did pay off. When time for district tournament arrived, the two teams predicted to be in the playoffs were MHS and Plainview. Monterey's high standing was attributed to the team's good attitude. "They are really concerned about how the team does and they want to do better than any other team has done before." (Coach Brewer) Out of the 17 man team, the four returning medalists were John Moore, Kim Coulter, Guy Conine (All-district) and Rex Robertson (all-district).

Athletes rely on individual effort

Practice makes perfect and perfection takes time. Golfers and swimmers practice year-round to retain their form, style and timing. . . "Swimming takes weeks, months, and even years of consistent hard work, but most of all it takes an awful lot of dedication." (Keith Dalrymple, senior)

These athletes cannot rely on a fellow team member to cover up for their mistakes; they must give 100% of their ability. . . "Golf is an individual sport where you have to get out and do it for yourself. It's a one-man game where no one else can help you." (John Moore, senior). . . The rewards reaped in competition allow the athlete to prove to himself and others that he has done his best. . . "The greatest thing about swimming is that we can show others our achievements through our own work." (Michele Matticks, senior)

In dual meets held in the Fall, the boys won against Amarillo, and the girls won against Abilene. The girls also placed third in the Amarillo Relays and fourth in the Lubbock Invitational Meet. These meets aided the swimmers in improving their times as they qualified for the regional meet

Highlights of the 1974-75 swim season included new swim team shirts, warm ups and bathing suits. "Students are really backing us and it is the greatest feeling to know when you are out there swimming that your school is backing you, too" (Doug Danner, senior). . . bus trips to the meets. . . THE M BASEBALL Game

4-AAAA state champs! Moegle's Men did it again—they copped the second championship title in six trips to the state tournament. After losing the first preseason game to Odessa High, the Plainsmen got it all together and won every game in district and the playoffs and ended the season with a 36-4 mark.

Highlights of the year included a party for Coach Bobby Moegle, who was honored for winning 400 games in his career at MHS... hotheaded Larry Horn, Jimmy Shankle and Coach Mike Crutcher were thrown out of the Caprock game for arguing with officials... "I definitely say the highlight of our season was our 30 game winning streak, but with the streak or without it, there is no better feeling than winning it all." (Brad Harrelson, senior) ... Shankle was drafted by the Boston Red Sox... and then Richard Bowles slammed a homerun for a final 4-2 win and State... "It wasn't until about an hour after the game that I realized that we were within inches of losing the state championship." (Rocky Alburtis, senior)

MOEGLE defends STATE

Moegle's Machine was put in working order as three full-time starters and three part-time starters returned and became part of the junior-dominated 17 member 1975 baseball team. In his 16th year as head baseball coach, Bobby Moegle has created 14 district championship teams and two state championship teams, and as the '75 team planned to defend the state championship. . . "Being a team member and playing for Coach Moegle were honors in themselves. Much is required in order to be a winner in sports as well as in life, and Coach Moegle is one of the best at producing winners." (Vince Martinez, senior). . . "Moegle put our strong points and our weak points in front of us so we could improve on them." (Mark Morgan, junior). . . The strengths were found in the experienced pitching arm of Scott Gardner (15-2 last year with a 1.46 ERA), the above average hitting ability of Rocky Alburts (.403) and Brad Harrelson (.363) and the team's strong defense. . . The weak points were found in their overall team speed and in an established number two pitcher.

Fems learned to compete with other girls in intramural sports such as volleyball, badminton, ping pong, tennis, softball, track and field, basketball, bowling and gymnastics. "Instead of playing the same old people in your PE class, you get a chance to compete with other girls." (Janet Overbeck, senior) asked a teacher about Monterey's curriculum. "It's what it's all about," she said. "It's why we're here in the first place. I couldn't help but agree with her. Back behind the fun and social part of each student's idea of school, stands the real reason we all come to MHS at 8:20 every morning. New courses, old subjects, boring classes, fun periods—they're all included in every kid's school life, but they're the basis for a school and without them, we'd never have the knowledge, friends and experiences we have now.

Whether it's calculus, French, home taking, drama, Bible, or typing that draws kids to school, it's the desire to learn that makes students climb out of bed and drive to school five days a week—four weeks a month—nine months a year.

Artists create through experience

An Artist does not start at 9 a.m. and quit at 5 p.m. he is what he is 24 hours a day . . . intensely. He views the world around him through fresh, searching eyes which need constant supporting stimulation. A budding artist can express his emotions, creativity and moods in any of the mediums taught at MHS. Applied design, pottery, printing, graphics and painting help give expression to creative thoughts.

Learn skills for future

Knowledge of business can only be obtained by actual experience. Students sought on the job training during the last half of their school day by participating in one of the many cooperative programs: Distributive Ed., Cooperative Office Ed., Cooperative Health Ed., or Home Economics Cooperative Ed. The first half of the day was spent in regular classes, including a job training class. The second half of the day, students reported to their various jobs to obtain the knowledge and experience necessary.

Family life, proper development of children and agriculture are traditional concerns of future parents and homemakers. Home and farm oriented skills are learned by prospective students of various homemaking and agricultural courses. Science probes minds Scientists are ruled by the everlasting quest for knowledge. Contributions to truth began when the student's mind was kindled to curiosity. Part of the science teacher's role was to put that spirit to action. The student's role was to act upon his impulse in one of the science courses offered such as Chemistry, Biology, Physics or Advanced Science.

Expression of thoughts and ideas of an author in today's theatre produces the emotions necessary for the creation of a play. In an atmosphere of unity and hard work, the cast and crew sacrifice their free time to build the final results of the play. The actor lives in two worlds, everyday living and the world of pretending. He finds himself absorbed in comedy and tragedy, with the placid feeling of having control of the audience. Drama, oral interpretation and speech give the students the proper tools to express themselves in everyday life

Asked a teacher what she thought of kids at Monterey too rowdy, too sneaky, seem to be the wildest in Lubbock. Asked a student what she thought of the faculty at Monterey and heaving a sigh, she said, "You've got to be kidding, they don't care about anything." Wanted to show them both the proud, smart individuals that make up the Plainsmen. Wanted to tell them that the people at Monterey could not be replaced by anyone. Wanted to tell them that a school of such dimensions as MHS has those people who always stand out in a crowd; others who calmly sit and watch and some who are the between of the personalities and the watchers. Wanted to tell them how each different variety of people combine to represent Monterey at its very best. No matter if someone is a library assistant, choir member or faculty member it's the people that make up a school. It's the people that count.

Superintendent Ed Irons heads a well-run, efficient public school system. He is assisted by Dr. E C. Leslie, Jay Gordon, and Harold Glasscock as well as many other coordinators and supervisors. Often institutions take on the personality of the head man and Monterey is certainly no exception. Since Mr. B.J. Randles, principal, is relaxed, friendly and adaptable, so is the school. Receptive to change, yet cautious enough to retain tried and true methods, Mr Randles always tries to keep the welfare of the student in mind. He's proud of the school and the faculty and the student body. However, he could not possibly run a school of 2100 plus, without the help of some very competent people. Mr. Waylon Carroll, assistant principal, is in charge of scheduling, attendance and anything else that happens to occur during the course of a busy day. Mr. Henry Zorns is in charge of building maintenance, discipline, safety, supplies etc., etc., etc Mr. C.W. Edwards serves as audio-visual coordinator for building and supervises student activities. Each of these men is assisted by a host of clerks, secretaries, office girls, and other helpers. These people work together to make the biggest school in Lubbock run smoothly.

INTEREST TEACHERS

Teachers, often categorized by students as non-human, are people who do live outside of the school building. Students seldom realize the individualism of teachers. Teachers, just like the pupils they instruct, have interests and ambitions far beyond those they exhibit in the walled realm of Monterey. Teachers' interests and hobbies range from archery, sculpture, sewing and of course, eating. Yes, teachers are really human and do carry on activities other than just assigning work and grading papers.

Monterey Workers benefit

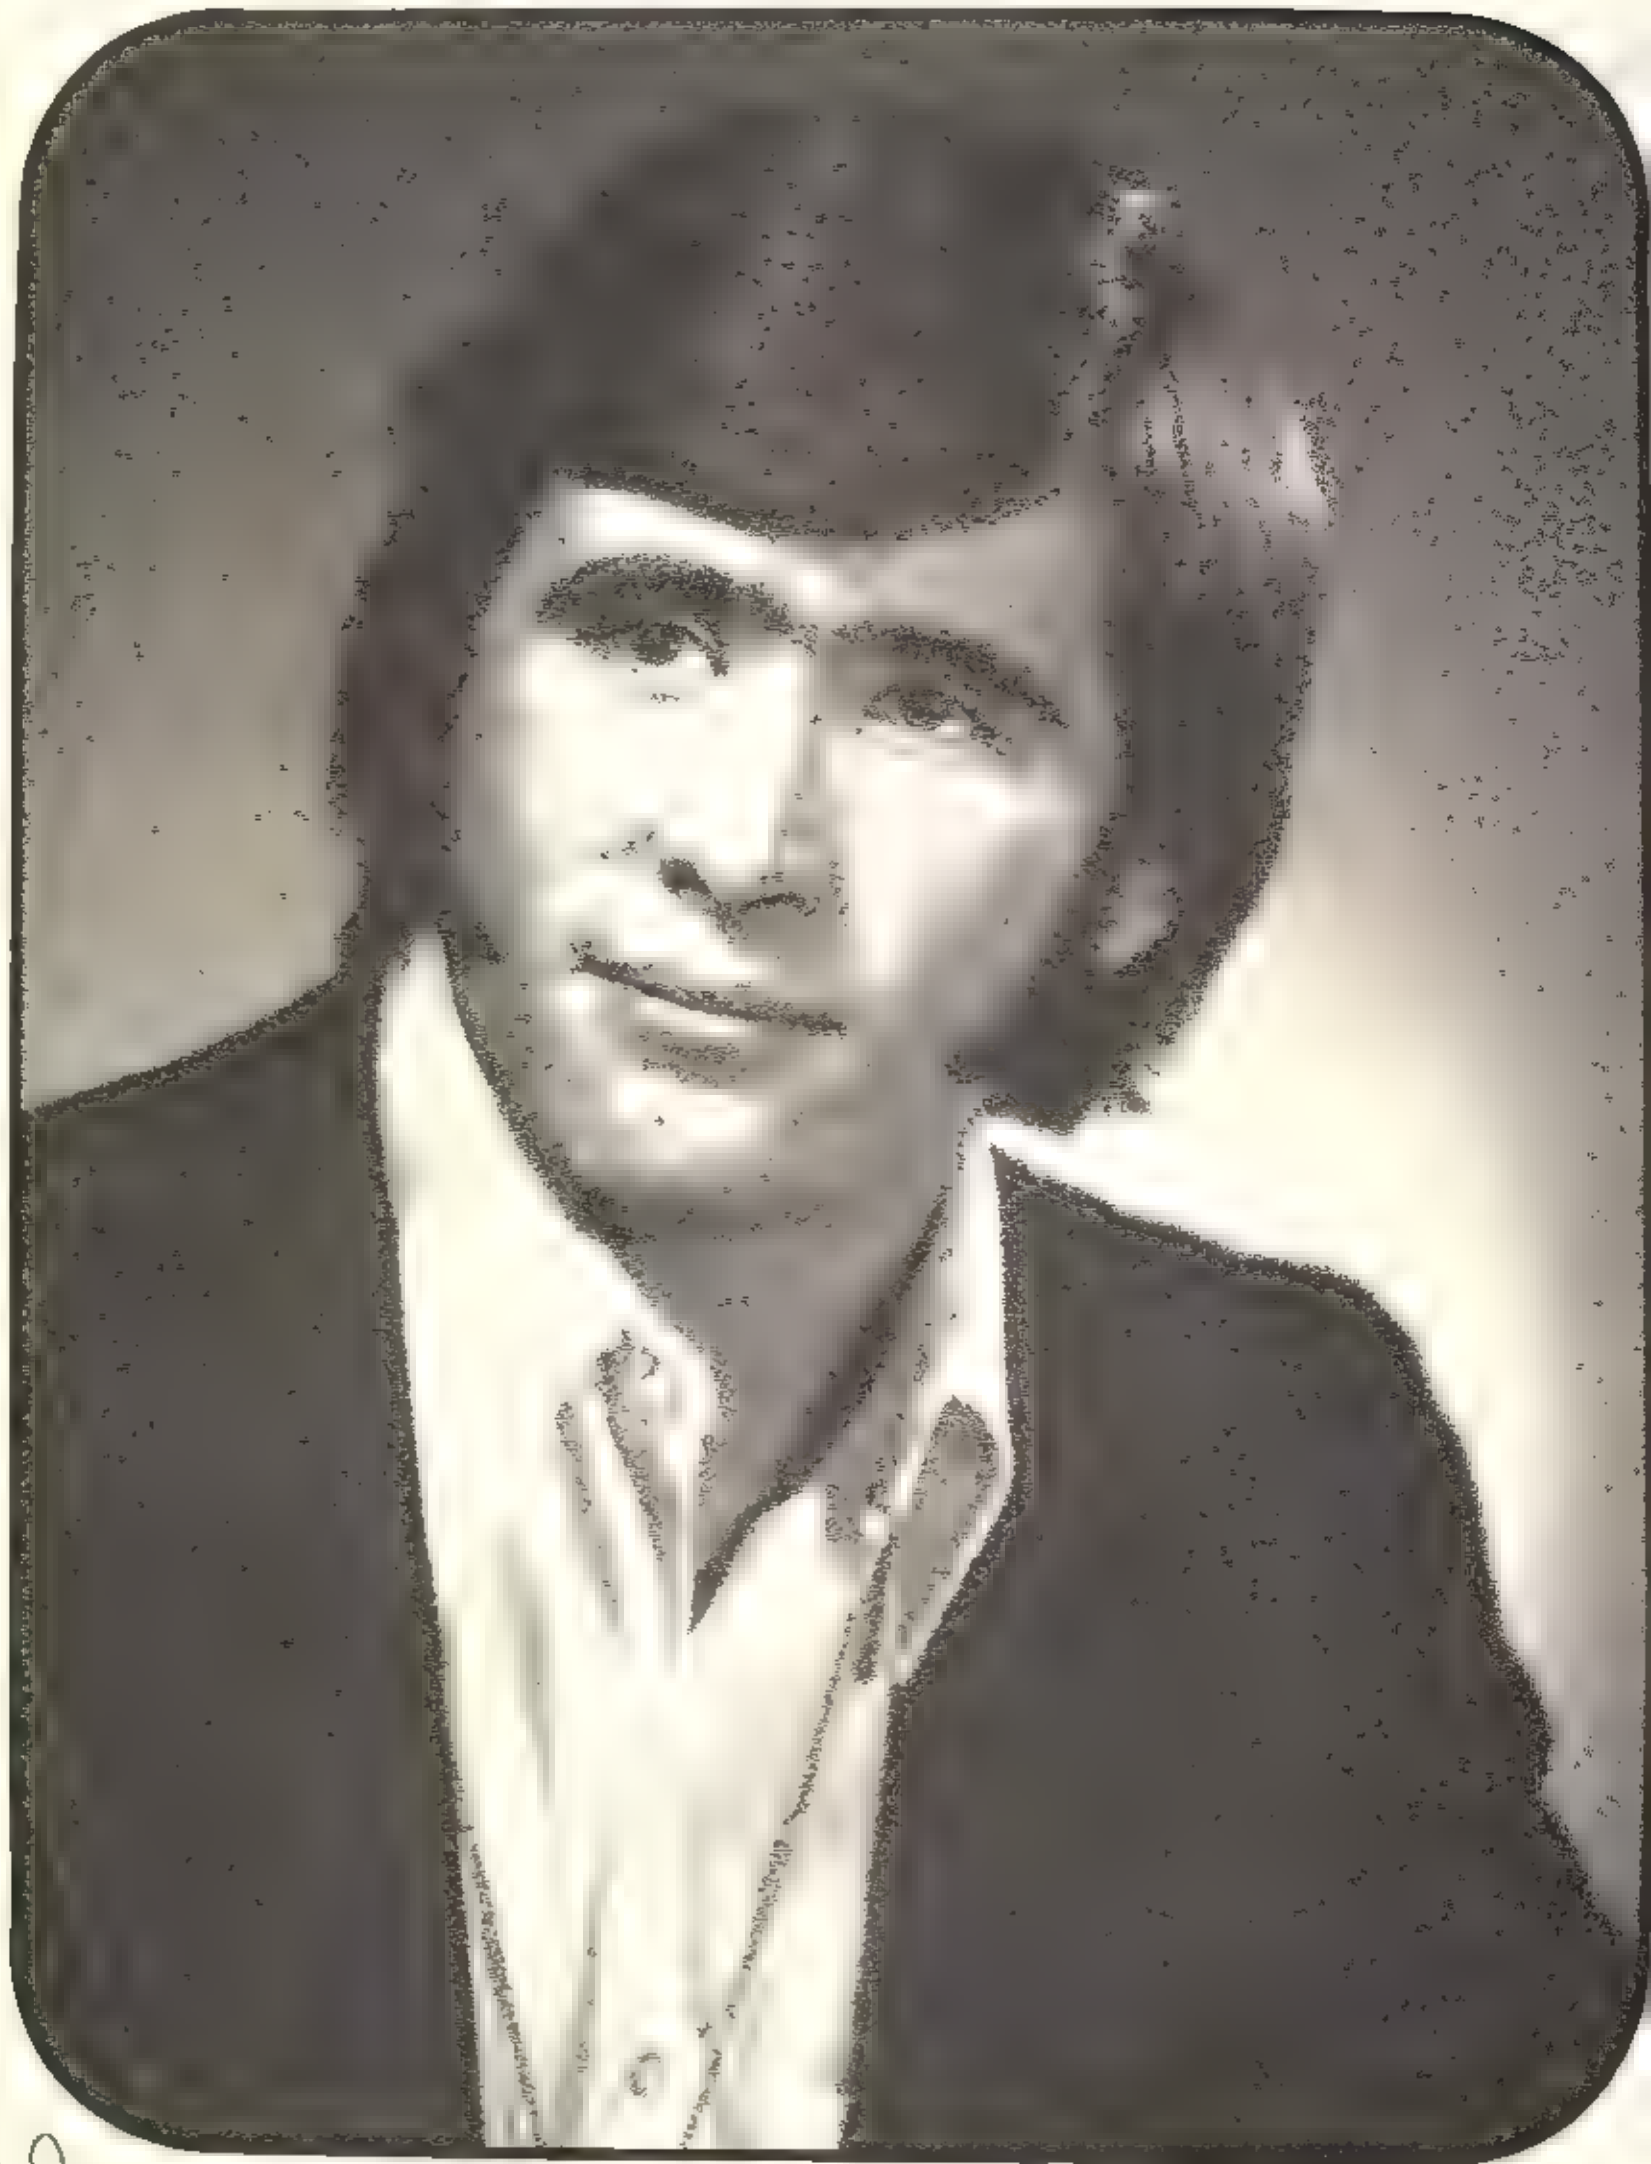

Competent faculty members are accented by the jobs of cafeteria workers and an efficient custodial staff. Wee morning hours and long late nights often find these people hard at work. From the preparing and serving of foods, to building and grounds maintenance, they help make the school run smoothly.

Within each individual, there is at least one dominate characteristic, whether it is leadership, honesty, dependability or personality. However, there are times when these qualities plus a rare charisma combine uniquely in one person. When this happens, that person can be classified as "all around student" and a truly exceptional individual. This year teachers nominated two students who best exhibited this combination of qualities, and from these nominations the student body voted for Top Ten 'Men. As the elections were not restricted to just one class, there were, of course, more than ten who should be honored as Top Ten. Yet, of 66 nominations, ten students received the winning votes and were recognized as Top Ten Plainsmen of 1975.

Mr and Miss Monterey were nominated by the student body to best exemplify the typical senior boy and senior girl. After receiving nominations, faculty members decided the finalists. Along with qualifications for Top Ten, Mr. and Miss Monterey were chosen on service to school, cooperation, courtesy and credibility.

There are those who are born with the gift of a fruitful brain, and then there are those who have to work a little harder for the glorious rewards of an "A" report card. However, for some eight students the PSAT-NMSQT tests proved easy enough, and they passed with flying colors to become 74-75's National Merit Semi-Finalists. The students whose final scores were in the top one per cent of people tested in Texas were chosen for this honor. Those whose percentages fell in the next lower two per cent received letters of commendation. Monterey was lucky enough to have nine letter recipients. The individuals who were finally named scholars were given a chance to receive National Merit Semi-Scholarships. All students had the personal satisfaction of knowing they completed 12 years of school as a job well done.

The 1975 Senior class's major objective was to stress the superiority of Seniors. June 7, 1974 marked a day of highlight for many of the class of '75. After 11 long years of waiting Senior rings were finally delivered. Some students did not feel the necessity to purchase a ring, however, the majority of the class did. Opinions varied widely among Seniors. Joy Ickes stated, "The only reason students buy Senior rings is totally for status." "Everybody ought to have one," was the opinion of Robert Stewart. Even though after graduation Senior rings will mean little more than memories of the past, Nancy Williams conveyed the overall feeling of most Seniors when she expressed, "You don't feel like one 'till you get it."

The class of '75 took full advantage of Senior study hall. The privileged study hall was carried on throughout the day, but was enjoyed mostly by sixth period. Many Seniors expressed their opinions about the free period. Cheryl Cloud concluded, "It makes the day go by faster." Senior study hall symbolizes Senior status. Being able to leave the school at a specific time shows Senior superiority. The study hall proved to be a challenge to some students as Susan Gardiner stated, "It gives the Seniors a chance to show how hard they have worked all 11 years." Many students found the study hall a time to go home and relax or to go to work while Loretta Hamby commented, "It separates the men from the boys." The Seniors enjoyed a shorter day while lower classmen sweated out another hour.

Rain, something unknown to Lubbock for an entire summer, made its grand appearance in September and overstayed its visit. After several days of the deluge, Laura Scioli groaned, "I think it is gonna rain for 40 days and 40 nights!" While Jo Beth Littlefield added, "Let's build an ark." Students faced many problems during the flood. Wet heads and frizzies were not an uncommon sight. As the rains continued, students began to wonder. Lisa Knight stated, "I think God thinks that the earth is dirty." Students became increasingly restless and fed up with the continuous rainfall, but to their great surprise . . . it finally stopped!

V-I-C-T-O-R-Y. THAT'S THE SENIOR BATTLE CRY! Senior spirit made it all happen at the pep rallies as upperclassmen met and overcame the constant challenges to their superiority. At the third pep rally, spirit started on its high until an immature student exploded a smoke bomb. After this, seniors bonded together and spread throughout the auditorium to boost spirit and maintain discipline. Susan Barnett's theory that "pep rallies are essential to boost the boy's spirit" was echoed by Athlete Richard Bouldin when he commented, "It's an uplifting vacation away from football." Senior pep rally participants such as Sam Smith felt that "they really give us a chance to relieve tension". Senior spirit really proved lasting as seniors continued to chant for the remainder of the day P-PO-POWER, WE'VE GOT POWER - WOO! SENIOR POWER!

Time, money and energy combined to make one athlete happy. Decorating houses for the athletes has been a tradition at Monterey for years and this Senior year was no exception. Of course, the athletes were not ones to complain. Dennis Benton exclaimed, "Fantastic!" Why not they enjoyed signs, streamers, cakes, cookies, balloons and other goodies! However, after carrying on the tradition for three years, many Senior girl's enthusiasm tended to fade away. Sophomore and Junior memories of decorating houses caused Senior Gale Tucker to say, "Sophomore girls do it to get well-known, Junior girls do it to get dates with the athletes and Senior girls just do not have the time or get a thrill out of it anymore. . ."

A tightly-packed auditorium and many wisecracks was the scene as Seniors filed into the auditorium to view choices for graduation invitations. Seniors were shown many examples of graduation gifts, souvenirs, name cards and invitations. When asked what came to mind on the subject of graduation invitations, Sharon Sparks stated, "Money, money, money" while Scott Hardy exclaimed, "I'm free!"

One bad idea plus the lack of the use of talent equaled one disgraceful Senior Assembly. In past years Senior Assemblies have been traditionally boring, but this year the boredom was nothing in comparison to the general lack of talent. Many Seniors felt that the funniest parts of the assembly were the cracks from the audience, while Katherine Martin felt that the assembly contained "meaningless comedy." Most Seniors felt as Dannette Morrison did when she stated, "I was ashamed to be a Senior that day." Some Seniors even went to the extreme of turning around their rings and asking to be known as Sophomores and Juniors. Dinah Garrett expressed the opinion of many when she commented, "We could have done better. We did not exert our full potential."

As Seniors began the task of deciding on colleges, they found it a very confusing task. Many conferences were held to help Seniors decide on a college and prepare for the tests they needed before entrance. Conferences allowed Seniors to talk with their counselor to make the best choice. Although the conferences were monotonous, Senior Francy Falbo said, "Boring but worthwhile." Rocky Reed also commented, "It's better than being lost."

What is a job? A job to a Senior is time, work, fun and money. For many Seniors at Monterey, jobs played a vital roll in their Senior year. For Cooperative Education students who left school at 11:40 a.m., jobs were not hard to get or find time for. Seniors involved in these programs felt that they were a great advantage. COE student Dinah Garret stated, "You are earning while you are learning." However, for Seniors who remained at school until 2:30 p.m., jobs were hard to find. Some students such as Randy Ramsey felt that, "It is hard to keep up with school and activities and do a good job at work." Regardless of the trouble some Seniors felt the necessity to have a job in order to get along.

"Rock around the clock, Rock around the clock, Rock, Plainsmen, Rock" was heard on 50's day as Seniors yelled to inspire the Plainsmen to hop to a victory over Hereford. Everyone was involved and spirit was at it's peak. Seniors scraped up old goodies out of the attic, and the girls searched out Mom's red lipstick while the boys slicked back their hair, and Monterey returned to the "Happy Days." The atmosphere was relaxed, everyone seemed to enjoy themselves, and Ann Biggs stated, "You could finally tell the boys from the girls." 50's day proved to be a great success at Monterey. Seniors proved worthy of their title as they took the initiative and led the way through a day of nostalgia.

WE MADE IT HAPPEN! Forethought and preparation by Senior Council members got the 1974-75 school year off to a good start. Back to school blues came much earlier for Senior Council members as they held meetings, painted welcome signs, and planned . . . planned . . . planned . . . to make it all happen before the dreaded day August 19. Carrying on the tradition of an ice cream party for the teachers was initiated with hopes of uniting student and teacher relationships. Jana Garrison said, "We did to show that we really do care in hopes that it would inspire the teachers to make this year the best ever!" And to the class of '75 it was.

Time is precious thing but for many Seniors this last year brought about great anticipation for the unknown future. As Seniors everyone had to look back at their past and forward at their future. The present seemed relevant to most people, but to Seniors there was increasing pressure applied to make serious decisions concerning the future. Seniors discovered that no matter what they were interested in, a decision had to be made regarding the all important future. The time and what to do with it proved to be a big part of being a Senior.

With Spring Fever added to the anticipation of graduation, Seniors found it nearly impossible to last through even their shortened day. Originality struck the Senior class in the form of mischievousness. Seniors of '75 went out of their way to leave a trace of themselves, hoping never to be forgotten. It was rumored that a large group of Senior boys initiated much of the mischievousness carried on by the Senior class. Among the various deeds accomplished, wrapping the patio appeared to be the least severe. As the need for attention increased, another deed occurred the arrival of the Goodner's cow in the front of the school. To top it all off, a mysterious dead cow was found buried in the patio as a spirit booster for the Hereford football game. Several band members added to the incident by playing TAPS for the mock funeral. John Moore seemed to think "Seniors think of everything."

It was a year full of many people. Crazy, funny, sad, mad, weird people. Each playing his own important part. Clicks, clubs, parties, fun, dating, three years of study to become what? A person. What is a person? A person is you. Everyone is a person. A person is life. A person is striving to be someone in the midst of millions of others. A person is loving. A person is happy. A person is being yourself. A school should relate to you and help you become the person you want to be. A person lives life one day at a time, one month at a time, and one year at a time. It was three long years filled with fun and precious memories for all but it was finally over. For who? Seniors of '75.

at Monterey on August 19

Classes had reluctantly begun, and a whole new school year stretched ahead. Juniors, feeling a little left-out and unimportant, arrived at Monterey with wide yawns and scuffling feet. We hesitantly stepped into our place as 11th graders. Although being a Junior did make us feel better than being a sophomore, it still wasn't comparable to the idolized position that the Seniors occupied. So, as Juniors, we had a lot to conquer—there were the Sophs to cope with and overlook, and inevitably, there were the Seniors who still refused to accept us as people. Soon, we were faced with the problem of parking—even though we finally had our drivers' license and a car of our own, we had to park half a mile away from school, since Seniors (as usual) has priority parking spaces. Every morning, we were forced to rush to school, arriving 15 minutes earlier than desired, in order to find a parking space anywhere in the vicinity of the building. Our situation began to look pretty dim. Mother Nature even played her part—for weeks, we were tortured by wind, rain and tempermental weather, making the parking space situation even more of a hassle. Scholastically, we approached even more problems. Our schedules soon became dull routine and the familiar grind of studying began. Classes were hot and boring, and the thoughts of coming assignments loomed. As a whole, it looked like our year was going to be quite dull and unexciting, for we had to be content with being the MIDDLE CLASS.

e Juniors did not let all this get us down. All 670 of us stood out as unique individuals, each contributing in his own way, and we were noticed. We participated with interest in all school activities. We sold magazines, worked for Student Council, attended all ballgames and expressed our loyalty and spirit to the school. It is in this way that the Junior Class of 1974-1975 stood out as a vital part in the crowds of Monterey, and

Juniors carry heavy load

Realizing that Seniors often coast a little as the year progresses, and that sophs are a little too new to know what it's really all about, All-School Council depended on the Juniors as an integral part of the work force. There were signs to be painted to express spirit and support, cakes to be baked for pep rallies, homeroom Christmas projects and parties waiting, and a hundred other chores for a big, busy high school. As the year progressed, Juniors discovered, to their surprise, that they too were a great necessity when it came to working. More and more jobs and responsibilities began to pile upon their shoulders, leaving little time for day-dreaming about SENIOR boys, or sophomore girls. So, Juniors went to work with a burst of confidence and energy, and found in their activities that each semester was short after all.

When spooks and goblins invaded the halls of Monterey, Plainsmen found to their surprise that most of these characters were only Juniors in disguise. Distinguished figures such as Medussa, Jay Gatsby and Daisy Buchanan and Superman, were seen casually strolling down the halls, eating in the cafeteria and sitting in classrooms. A little confused, some students wondered what was going on. What called for such masquerade . . . Halloween of course. This year, in honor of the annual "spooks and goblins" day, the Junior English classes of Ms. Lila Jones, creatively dressed as imaginary and historical figures. Disguised students gave a brief explanation of their character's personalities, and enjoyed bringing their characters to life.

Juniors fall

As the year progressed, Juniors found to their misfortune that not every school day could be exciting. Dull routine began to settle, and things started to look a little blah. Juniors fell into the daily grind of routine school days and each day grew longer and longer... and.... longer..... and..... Juniors tried their hardest to crawl out of the MHS rut but developed the familiar "Blow it off" attitude. By putting school aside, they made time for more excitement. Nevertheless, the blah epidemic was overcome by new activities and the year progressed.

"ALL RIGHT!" Grinning with approval, Tim Leslie gets into the spirit of a basketball game because he knows his team is the best around

This winter basketballs were not the only things bouncing at Monterey. Thanksgiving—Choir and Band concerts—"The Skin of Our Teeth"—Christmas—Semester finals. They all came at once this year, as if an avalanche had fallen. But Juniors did not get buried in apathy. They were alive and a part of everything. Even with such busy schedules, Juniors did not fail to support their men. Basketball began and the gym-stands were filled with boisterous Juniors showing their spirit in the best way they knew how.

Junior assembly - for the birds??

What makes a good assembly? Is it the people, the talent, the jokes, or what? A lot is needed at Monterey to make an assembly enjoyable. Already disappointed with the Senior Assembly, most students entered the auditorium for the Junior Assembly with closed minds. Perhaps this development of attitudes affected the opinions of many students, preventing them from realizing the time and effort put into it. What highlighted the Junior Assembly? Well, there was . . . and . . . and . . . and . . . As a whole the general comment of the Junior Assembly was, "Well, it was better than the Senior Assembly, but

As that fateful bell rang on August 19th a universal sigh was heaved, inwardly at least, as we bid farewell to those halcyon days of summer. Carefree days faded into the past as we all said, "Well, I'll see ya," and trudged off to our respective homerooms. To sophomores the hurry and bustle of a new school with more teachers, more students, and more room in which to get lost was confusing. After much fumbling around, consulting of maps, and being sent on wild goose chases by upper classmen, we were able to end up where we belonged. We were buried in forms, forms, and more forms as we staggered under loads of texts and assignment sheets, yet we managed to make it happen.

Along came cheerleader elections jumping, shouting and practicing, practicing, practicing. Every day putting the best into each move, each word. Always trying, hoping, willing to excel. Then came semi-finals, leaving only a handful of girls to be chosen from, girls not to be equalled in skill. Now the goal of perfection was even more diligently sought. At last the day arrived, six girls, six cheers, seven hundred students voting. All waiting for that special moment, when sophomore cheerleaders would be named. Then the announcement came to vote again and again. But at last it was done, and the sophomore cheerleaders, Pam New and Cindy Brooks, were picked. Out of hundreds they were picked, to serve on Student Council, to promote school spirit, and most of all, to boost our team on to victory.

Sophs endure P.E.

ONE, two, three, four! ONE, two, three, four! Run, jump, throw, kick, pull, swing. Try to your best. You can do it. All it takes is practice. Watch with dismay as the ball you hit SO carefully goes foul. Or give a cheer as a team member makes the winning point. Suffer the bitterness of defeat or the heady joy of winning a tournament. Dread your P.E. class or look forward to it. Try out for extra-curricular sports or stick to the sidelines only. No matter how you feel you can't help getting caught up in the game, and feeling the blow of overthrown or the jubilation of victory. Do your best and try to win. To sophs this year would not be just any year. Milestones was about to be passed—the Driver's License. Some endured the long, hot days of summer school. Others sat through the endless hours after school or yawned through the early morning sessions. But then came simulator where all learned to make mistakes, and then the last act, in-car which was the final step to the goal—everyone's goal—"The License."

As the year went on and sophomores endured more and more jokes and pranks from the juniors and seniors, the Sophomore Bench seemed to top all the previous gags. CONFUSION -- Sophs sit through assemblies to acquire knowledge on the new quarter system

Sophs plan for something new

For the first time next year the quarter system will be put into effect in Lubbock Public Schools. Sophomores of this year were forced to plan their schedules according to the new system. Most sophomores found the new system confusing, but conferences were held during extended homeroom periods for an entire week to help students understand and plan their schedules for next year ENJOYABLE -- As Chris Teeter glances through a book, he appreciates the music in the library.

It takes a lot of people to produce an annual. The support of over 100 Lubbock merchant and business firms have made the yearbook possible. By advertizing in the yearbook, people of the community have contributed to the benefit of the student body. Without the aid of these friendly citizens of Lubbock, this student project would not have been created. The yearbook staff wishes to extend appreciation to all the merchants who made it happen - who made it count.

Looking toward the future, Sophomores kicked off the new school year. Many of them spent their Friday nights cruising to the SONIC DRIVE-IN, 4611 34th SPORTS CENTER, 1602 13th, provided girls the necessities they needed for Girls P E. Special acts in the Howdy Assembly were accompanied with instruments from EARL RAY MUSIC, Briercroft Center. Eagerly awaiting their sixteenth birthday, dreams of a new car from VILLA OLDS, 5301 Avenue O, along with Insurance from ALLSTATE, 2720 50th, greatly added to the excitement. Sophomores found at BELL DAIRY, 201 University, products essential for their daily requirements. They found their new identity and a new life in high school and depends on local merchants to meet all their needs.

For those special times that came once a year, gals from Monterey discovered TODDIES, in Monterey Center, had a complete selection. It was easy to find the right accessories from jewelry to belts at HEMPHILL-WELLS. Preparing for the Prom highlighted the year for most juniors and seniors. For guys, looking their sharpest meant renting a tux or dress clothes from GINGISS FORMAL WEAR, South Plains Mall. Long formals, short dresses and accessories for the gals were easily acquired at LATHAM'S 3801 50th. With the swirl of activities at the Prom, a welcome change was relaxing in chairs and couches provided by McKELVY'S, 4602 Ave Q. A favorite after-Prom dining spot was EMBERS STEAK HOUSE, 1605 50th. As the Prom marked the end of high school for seniors, it also marked the beginning of college. The COLLEGE INN, 1001 University, invites seniors to make early college reservations.

Local merchants work efficiently to meet the needs of MHS students. DOUBLE T RANCH, South Plains Mall, provided many cowboys with the necessary western wear. DUNLAPS, in Caprock Center, on the other hand, offers a more casual look. With the introduction of the '75 models, PIONEER LINCOLN MERCURY, 901 Texas or 3806 Ave. Q, put a new car in the garage of many Plainsmen. The proud owners of the new vehicles used the service of DON R REYNOLDS AGENCY, 5 Briercroft Office Park, to protect their prized possessions. Having all this behind them, MHS students sat back to enjoy the entertaining atmosphere of CHANNEL 11-KCBD-TV, 5600 Ave A.

If it's Borden,
it's got to be good.

Taking care of the large business problems is as important as the smaller ones. MARINE ELECTRIC, 3605 Ave. A, hopes to be of help in the energy crises. "Redecorating is less expensive than moving," reminds CAGLE FURNITURE INC., 2202 Ave. Q. With the gas crisis, WEBB AUTO SUPPLY, 1602 Ave. F, tries to keep the cars in shape. MCGLAUN OFFICE SUPPLY, 2218 34th, has all the reasonably priced office equipment. Keeping families healthy, BORDEN INC., 519 Ave. J, offers their door-to-door milk service.

Inflation seemed to affect the lives of Monterey students, too. Yet the businessmen of Lubbock worked together on the problem. TURNER FORD, 1605 Broadway, kept the cost of the '75's reasonable, and many students took advantage of this. Keeping up the maintenance of the new cars, PARTS PLACE, 5604 Slide, had all the necessary items. LUXURY LIVING Rt 2, Box 462, proved those "little extras" were still affordable, especially with their selections. If new carpet was on the schedule, TUFTWICK CARPET CO., 5201 34, made these plans possible. Taking care of those unexpected emergencies, JERRY AKER INSURANCE, 6701 Indiana, proved very helpful. THE STRAWBERRY PATCH, 3809 34th, decided suffering through the high cost-of-living in the latest styles was the only way to go.

HATS OFF! Rusty Riley tries on ten gallon hats at LUSKEY's WESTERN STORE, where he's sure to find just what he's looking for

It hasn't been too long ago that the Plains country was big, open, empty and dark. Along came Southwestern Public Service with a desire to light the whole area and provide enough power for radios, washers, TV's and all the other comforts of a modern world. There's still a lot of old Western spirit left in these parts and LUSKEY'S WESTERN STORE, 2431 34th Street, tries to supply all the needs of cowboys and cowgirls who still dress traditionally. It's merchants like Luskey who have helped make Lubbock the hub of a prosperous area.

It took all of us...

...to make this mess. The mistakes you find are ours indeed, but we had a ball doin' it!! We hope you will approach it with the same spirit we did.

There were those days that we thought we'd never make it. Sometimes, we thought we'd be 180 before we finished this yearbook. There were the times we ran out of copy triplicates; the three letters we had to write the company asking them to renumber pages we'd already sent in; the two deadlines we missed; the "headlines" we attempted to write; the assigned and reassigned photo assignments; the unorganized photo books we continually messed up; then there was the Ad section, oh! that Ad section; counting ballots for Top Ten; the missing negatives; the fights with Coronado publications over the phone; the ruined film; and the daily talks and "discussions" with Ms. Stanley, all little instances that helped put this yearbook together. We had worries, several heart attacks and a general blast makin' this annual. We only hope you enjoy it and think as much of it as we, Chaparral staff, did. We may have been at fault in several ways, but as people, people who took pride in their school, their town and themselves, we made the year happen in words and pictures. As we said in the beginning, it's the people that matter. The important thing is that we all have been captured in a book, and that we all, as people, were the ones to creat the images in it and the staff has preserved it for you forever.

(thank goodness)
